If you're on a budget, you can take the airport express to Lediseplein, which makes two stops. The second stop is the Museumplein, which is near many of the city's main attractions and hotels. You can also get off the bus at the Elandsgracht Bus Station, which is a 25 to 30-minute ride to the city center. Keep in mind, however, that the train is not as safe for foreigners as you might think, and that you'll have to find another way to get to your final destination. Do you want to learn more?
